East Elementary School physical education teacher Kim Harvey said she's always looking for ways to build students' self-confidence and health, provide new opportunities and bring core curriculum into her lessons.

Harvey recently received a grant from the Brownwood Education Foundation (BEF) for her Climbing New Heights project.

"I'm excited to have students track their progress, collaborate in teams to solve mathematics and ELAR concepts."

Over 700 teachers educate over 8,600 students in Carroll ISD every year, according to district enrollment numbers. Those teachers instruct more than 250 different courses, from core subjects like math and English to STEM programs like engineering and robotics. And they're able to do all of that thanks in no small part to the parents, business leaders and community stakeholders involved with the Newly formed education foundation for LHHS makes fundraising goals for first year

By Liesbeth Powers | Education, Lake Highlands High School, News, Nonprofits and Volunteers, Richardson ISD | 0

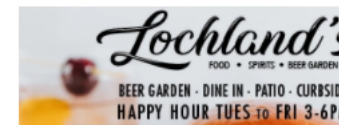

The Lake Highlands High School Education Foundation is starting its first year with plans to raise $250,000 for teachers and students.

The organization was formed in March as a non-profit to oversee annual fundraising campaign Wild for Cats and the LHHS Alumni Association. Wild for Cats previously operated under the Richardson ISD Foundation.

"We wanted to bring [Wild for Cats] in house to be more readily available to meet the needs of students and staff at the high school and to be more responsive to our donors," said Robin Moss Norcross, president of the LHHSEF.

LHHSEF is currently running a founding partner campaign toward starting overhead costs and to start assisting high school students and teachers in need. This campaign will run until the end of the year.
